

The UK Branch of WPSA 32nd Poultry Science Symposium on "Poultry feathers and skin – the past, present and future of poultry integument", to be held in Cambridge, 3rd to 5th July, 2017.

Symposium Poster Abstracts

All abstracts accepted for the symposium will be included in the book published by CABI based on the symposium.

The abstract submission process is an entirely online process, but you are advised to produce a word document of your abstract to make use of more advanced spell checking and formatting functions than those provided by the online submission process.

Abstract format

Abstracts should contain original material that has not been published before in any English publication

Abstract Title - max 150 characters (approx. 25 words)

Abstract Text - max 3000 characters, which is approximately 250 words

It is recommended that the following headings are used when submitting abstracts:

- Introduction
- Aims and Objectives
- Material and Methods
- Results
- Conclusion(s)

Please begin each new section with the above headings and type them in initial capital letters e.g. "Introduction".

All abbreviations used must be described fully in the text once.

To insert formatting and/or special characters you must use the drop down box

Please note that should you wish to "cut and paste" your text from MS Word, for example, the formatting and special characters may be lost. To reformat, please use "Insert Formatting" drop down box and "Insert Character" to insert special characters.
